A RANDY headmistress and a hunky gym teacher had sex in a school...while the PE sir's WIFE watched and even FILMED the romps.

Dana Simmons and Dylan Charles have now been sacked as school bosses deal with the fallout from furious mums and dads outraged by the kinky antics.

Half wait four hours at casualty

A&E WAITING times have deteriorated so much this winter that at some hospitals in England more than half of patients had to wait over four hours.

Analysis of data for December and January shows Hull University Hospitals, Wye Valley and Shrewsbury and Telford were worst.

The best trust out of the 107 providing data, Northumbria Healthcare, had fewer than 10% waiting more than four hours.

NHS England said plans were being put in place to support struggling trusts.

The BBC analysis of published waiting-time figures comes as the NHS is nearing the end of its worst winter since records began nearly 20 years ago.

There have been delays across the emergency care system all winter with both ambulances and A&Es struggling.

British jobless rate flatlines

THE UK unemployment rate has remained unchanged despite Britain's economy flatlining as a wave of people returned to work, official figures show.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) said the rate of UK unemployment was 3.7% in the three months to December, the same as the three months to November.

The data showed that pay growth was 6.7%, the strongest growth rate seen outside the pandemic, the ONS said.

But wages continue to be outstripped by rising prices.

DON'T WORRY...IT'S NOT ALIENS

White House plays down talk of Moonmen invasion

THE White House has played down talk of a space alien invasion after the US shot down a series of unidentified objects over North American airspace this month.

"I know there have been concerns about this, but there is no indication of aliens or extraterrestrial activity with these recent takedowns," White House press secretary Karine Jean-Pierre said. The denial marks an about face for the US government. On Sunday, a US Air Force general said he would not rule out aliens or any other explanation yet.

The general's comments came during a Pentagon briefing after a US F-16 fighter jet shot down an octagonal-shaped object over Lake Huron on the US-Canada border. It was the third shootdown of an unidentified object following the February 4 downing of a Chinese balloon off the South Carolina coast that put North American air defences on high alert.

US officials said that balloon was being used for surveillance.

The objects' origins have been the subject of intense interest and speculation in the United States.

Just under half of Americans believe UFOs exist and have visited the earth, according to a 2020 poll.

Multiple White House officials ruled out the possibility that the objects came from outer space.

"I don't think the American people need to worry about aliens with respect to these crafts, period," White House spokesperson John Kirby said during a White House briefing.

Council Tax bills to rocket by over £100

MILLIONS of households are facing an increase in their council tax from April, as local authorities try to balance their books.

The County Councils Network (CCN) found three-quarters of English councils with social care duties that have published budget details are planning a 5% hike.

This is the maximum allowed without a local vote, and would add just over £100 a year to bills for average Band D properties.

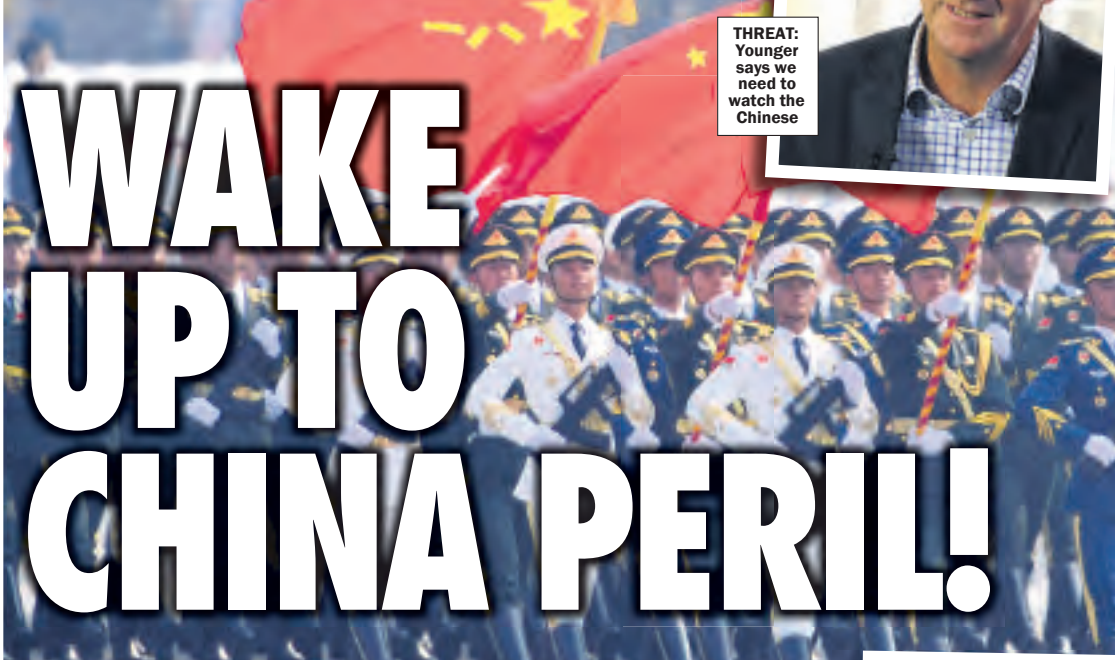

The government said councils should consider money pressure on residents.

It said the amount local authorities will be able to spend next year was set to rise by £5.1bn, representing an average 9% rise for local authorities.

But council leaders say they have "little choice" but to raise tax to protect services, despite the rising cost of living for residents.

The CCN has analysed the budget plans of 114 out of the 152 councils in England with responsibility for social care that have published details.

FORMER MI6 BOSS WARNS OF DANGER FROM EVIL COMMIES

WAKE UP TO CHINA PERIL!

THREAT: Younger says we need to watch the Chinese

THE UK must "wake up" to the threat posed by China's challenges to global security, the ex-head of MI6 has said.

Sir Alex Younger, who led the UK's Intelligence Service between 2014 and 2020, said Western nations are "under the full press of Chinese espionage".

US military have shot down four objects - including a suspected Chinese spy balloon - in the past week.

Sir Alex said the UK must place limits on tolerating countries "who behave in an unacceptable way".

On February 4, the US military shot down a Chinese spy balloon after it travelled over sensitive military sites across North America.

China has claimed the object was a weather balloon gone astray.

Since then, three other "unidentified objects" have been downed across North America.

Sir Alex said "this balloon scenario demonstrates there is no trust" between China and western nations.

"This is a gross and really visibly transgression of the sovereignty of many nations."

The United Kingdom must now recognise "we're in a competition" with China, Sir Alex added.

He said: "We need to wake up to this."

"We need to double down on the strengths that we possess to face this systemic competition that's going on."

Alert

Prime Minister Rishi Sunak has said the government will do "whatever it takes" to keep the UK safe from spy balloons.

On Monday the prime minister said a "quick reaction alert force" of RAF Typhoon jets was on stand-by 24/7 to police UK airspace.

1,300 UK jobs to go at Ford

FORD has announced it will be scrapping 3,800 jobs across Europe, including 1,300 in the UK, over the next three years amid plans to focus on a smaller range of electric vehicles.

The global carmaker said 2,800 engineering roles will be axed by 2025, and around 1,000 jobs in its admin, marketing, sales and distribution teams.

Ford says the shake-up will pave the way for a profitable future and to compete with rival car brands in Europe.

The job losses will create a "leaner, more competitive cost structure" and help with the transition toward a smaller, more focused and increasingly electric product portfolio, the company said.

COPS CRACK CREME EGG CASE

A MAN has been charged with theft after a trailer-load of 200,000 Creme Eggs were stolen from an industrial unit.

Joby Pool was arrested in connection with the incident on February 11 which involved an estimated £40,000 worth of confectionery, West Mercia Police said.

In a series of tweets, the force said the "eggs-travagant theft" unfolded at Stafford Park in Telford, Shropshire.

"A number of other chocolate varieties were also stolen," police said.

In a statement, the force added: "Shortly after the theft a vehicle, presumably purporting to be the Easter bunny, was stopped northbound on the M42 and a man was arrested at the scene on suspicion of theft." Pool, 32, of no fixed address, is facing two charges of theft and another of criminal damage, after a chain lock was also allegedly broken.

Shropshire Fire and Rescue Service's Market Drayton station replied to news the haul had been recovered, telling police "excellent work by all involved".

GET YER LIPS ROUND THIS, LOVE!

MAKEUP artist Isamaya Ffrench has launched a new range of lipsticks in the shape of a COCK 'N' BALLS!

The new phallic-themed products are part of her latest LIPS collection.

The gunmetal genitalia packaging was inspired by the “post-Italian Renaissance male form” and, according to Isamaya’s brand, the range “calls for human connection, and maintains our ethos of celebrating one’s self”.

As for the lipstick itself, there are two options – Cardinal, a red lipstick with a satin-like finish, and Vanity, a sheer black balm formulated with light-reflective pearls.

VIEWERS hoping to see a villains-and-shooters romp in the BBC's new real-life crime drama The Gold, based on the 1983 Brinks-Mat heist, were in for a bit of a disappointment.

In fact, the actual robbery only merited four minutes of actual screen time.

A bigger theme was how Kenny Noye – later to become one of Britain's most notorious killers – was painted almost like a modern day Robin Hood.

Jack Lowden plays Noye, who is given to making speeches about how Sarf London blaggers are merely taking what the posh nobs have cruelly denied them.

Meanwhile, Hugh Bonneville

Screenwriter Neil Forsyth has invented some characters, such as the crooked solicitor Edwyn Cooper (Dominic Cooper) and DI Nicki Jennings (Charlotte Spencer) from Rotherhithe, both of whom help him to make more points about class, sexism and social inequality.

Alas, feisty Jennings keeps her kit on – unlike in her role for the 2014 E4 drama Glue.

And other stars with nuddy pasts include Ruth Bradley, who plays Isabell Cooper, and Stefanie Martini, who plays the wife of gold dealer John Palmer.

STRIKES 'WORST FOR A DECADE'

THE UK recorded the highest number of working days lost to strike action for more than a decade in December, according to official figures.

About 843,000 working days were lost to labour disputes in the month, the Office for National Statistics said.

It said this represents the heaviest impact from strike action during a month since November 2011, when 997,000 working days were hit.

The surge in lost days came after rolling industrial action involving Post Office, rail and NHS workers among others.

ONS director of economic statistics Darren Morgan said: "The number of working days lost to strikes rose again sharply in December."

"Transport and communications remained the most heavily affected area, but this month there was also a big contribution from the health sector."

Last week the ONS released separate data which showed that the vast majority (97%) of working adults have not missed work as a result of the strikes, with just 3% saying they had.

The survey period covered January 25 to February 5, but the ONS cautioned that the majority of responses would have been received before the February 1 strikes when hundreds of thousands of workers walked out in the biggest day of industrial action in more than a decade.

While some smaller disputes have since been resolved, many have continued into 2023 as inflation continues to outstrip increases in pay.

The ONS said yesterday that regular pay growth reached 6.7% over the three months to December.

However, once consumer prices index inflation is taken into account, regular pay fell by 3.6%.

Dimbleby calls on BBC boss to 'fall on sword'

RICHARD Sharp is facing growing calls to "fall on his sword" and resign as BBC chairman over the controversy row caused by him helping Boris Johnson secure an £800,000 loan facility.

Rishi Sunak was standing by the former banker despite a critical report by MPs finding Mr Sharp made "significant errors of judgment".

Jonathan Dimbleby warned Mr Sharp acting as a go-between before being put forward was causing a "great deal of damage for the BBC".

He said: "I have no doubt he is an honourable man."

"But what he should do honourably is to fall on his sword and say 'in the interest of the BBC which I care about I don't want this to go on and on and on, I shall stand aside'."

Former journalist Baroness Wheatcroft, who sits on the Lords Communications Committee, said: "It doesn't look right, it doesn't smell right, and it doesn't feel right."

Autism drug breakthrough

A CHEAP epilepsy drug has cured autism-like symptoms in mice for the first time, in what could be a breakthrough.

Lamotrigine, brand name Lamictal, was able to curb behavioural and social problems linked to the disorder, which is becoming increasingly common in the US.

It's thought the drug, which costs around £2.50 per pill, works by reversing changes to brain cells caused by a genetic mutation.

Previous studies have shown autism is more common in people who have mutations that "switch off" a gene known as MYT1L.

Lead author of the study, Dr Moritz Mall from the Hector Institute for Translational Brain Research, said: "Drug treatment in adulthood can alleviate brain cell dysfunction and counteract behavioural abnormalities typical of autism."

DON'T CALL ME A PSYCHO!

NOT THE NEXT DAHMER: Karl Pfeffer is on trial

By KYLE COOPER news@sundaysport.co.uk

A MANIAC on trial for murdering his elderly mother and chopping her into bits before throwing her remains into a river told a court he is "no threat to society".

Karl Pfeffer, 28, was arrested in October after fleeing Warsaw, Poland, where he and his mum Gretchen had lived together.

Appearing before judges in the Polish capital, Pfeffer grinned at court photographers before saying: "I don't want to look like a psycho in the media, I don't want to be the next Jeffrey Dahmer."

Described as being an "oddball", Karl, 28, is said to have lived off his 71-year-old mother – a wealthy widow whose body has yet to be found – and taken up drugs.

He continued to tell the court: "Allow me to admit that I buried the body in the river and explain why this person is dead."

Pfeffer claimed his relationship with his mother "was the one that turned sour".

Vulgar

He added: "She went from being cultured and friendly to being vulgar."

"I don't want to be treated as a murderer and a psychopath."

"I want to go back to the beach. I am not a threat to society."

However, the victim has been described as being "social, intelligent and communicative".

Wanting to reconnect with her Polish roots, Gretchen had moved to Poland from Seattle in 2016 following the death of her husband and settled into the posh suburb of Zoliborz.

She spent her time visiting friends and neighbours and also had daily contact with loved ones back in the US.

According to those who knew her, her relationship with her son had become strained.

Witness statements revealed that he refused to work, relied upon her for financial support and abused drugs. He also started becoming violent towards her.

A court document revealed one of her pals told investigators that Gretchen confided in her that Karl Pfeffer had beat her around the head with a frying pan during a row.

At the end of March 2020, all the victim's in-person contact with Gretchen's friends stopped, and the odd social media post or message sent from her phone was strikingly different from her usual style of speech and the way she wrote.

After finding her things missing from her apartment, police concluded on March 31, 2020, or April 1, 2020, Karl Pfeffer killed his mother Gretchen in her Warsaw apartment.

Investigations showed on April 1 Pfeffer had bought a handsaw and duct tape.

Analysis of his phone and Uber data revealed two days later he had travelled to Warsaw's main river, the Vistula.

Going into hiding in September, Pfeffer then contacted a relative and confessed.

If convicted, Pfeffer faces life in prison.

The trial continues.

Ms Hüster's employer, the Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung newspaper, said police were investigating.

The initial review of Mr Goetze's show, In the Dutch Mountains, was described by Ms Hüster as like being "alternately driven mad and killed by boredom".

Ms Hüster said she was in "shock" after the attack.

Lady killers more driven than fellas

WOMEN mass killers are more likely to be driven by money than their male counterparts who typically kill for sexual gratification.

Professor Marissa Harrison, associate professor of psychology at Penn State Harrisburg in the US, has spent years researching the difference between male and female serial killers.

Her book, Just as Deadly: The Psychology of Female Serial Killers, also reveals that many female serial murderers have college degrees or higher, with around 40% working as nurses or health care workers.

This is compared to male killers, who on average have a lower level of education.

Female killers are statistically more likely to have been married at least once before their first attack, compared to males who are normally single when they claim their first victim.

Female serial killers, such as Yank Aileen Wuornos (above), are also considered to be more methodical in their approach to killing.

A poll of 15,000 people found 2% said they shag every day – sometimes more than once.

Londoners were the friskiest, with 4% saying they have sex eight or more times a week, followed by those in Northern Ireland (3%).

At the opposite end of the scale, people in Yorkshire and Humber, the East Midlands and the North West were among the least active, with just 1% claiming to have sex eight times or more a week.

The study, by bed retailer Dreams, goes against YouGov data which shows the average Briton has sex just 1.1 times a week.

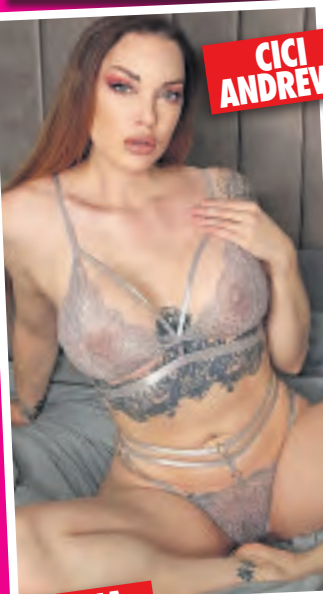

Sammy Margo at Dreams said sex is good for our health and “can contribute to better sleep because of the hormones released”.

Householder claims man he shot and chopped to pieces was a burglar...

HE'S A DECENT BUTCHER BUT A GREAT LIAR

A MAN dodged a murder rap after he killed, cut up and burned the body of an armed villain he said he found in his home.

Prosecutors insisted Colton Stock, 33, was a murderer who knew his victim Matthew Calkins, dismembered the body with a saw, hid parts of it in an unknown location and set the crime scene on fire to escape justice.

On May 5, 2019, Kansas City police were called to a home to investigate the sound of gunfire.

Firefighters were also called to put out flames in the basement, where authorities discovered Calkins's dead body underneath a tarp.

Stock's defence said that Calkins, armed with a gun, had broken into Stock's house in the Northland area of Kansas City, Missouri, during a burglary and that Stock was defending himself when Calkins was shot. Stock was acquitted of first-degree murder and armed criminal action by a Clay County jury back in November.

By BRAD CHADWICK

But the jury found him guilty of abandoning a corpse and evidence tampering.

They recommended he serve four years for each count.

Trash

During the sentence hearing, Clay County Deputy Prosecutor Robert Sanders said Stock treated Calkins "like a piece of trash".

As authorities sought to locate the missing head, arms and legs of Mr Calkins to bring the family "some peace", Sanders accused Stock of giving a false location that Kansas City police extensively searched without success, saying that there was "no indication" that Stock was being truthful.

"He's a decent butcher but a great liar," Sanders said.

Representing Stock in the case was Bob Nickerson, a Clay County public defender.

He asked that Stock be sentenced to a total of two years, which would have led to his release, as Stock has already been held in Clay County jail since his arrest in 2019.

Stock was sentenced by Judge Shane T. Alexander – who called the case "egregious" – to a total of eight years for the convictions.

He concluded the jury's recommendations were justified, and ordered the four-year sentences to be served back-to-back, though Stock will receive credit for the nearly four years already spent in jail.

He also ordered Stock to pay a $10,000 fine on each count.

Early death link to having a limp grip

HAVING a handshake like a limp dick will kill you STONE DEAD!

Boffins have found a weak grip could be a harbinger of early death, according to a new study from researchers at the University of Michigan.

The study links grip strength to a higher risk of age-related chronic diseases, like cancer.

Researchers said a limp grasp may be a sign of overall muscle weakness – a known factor of many degenerative diseases.

"Given these links, grip strength has been labelled a 'biomarker of aging'. And yet the pathways connecting grip strength to negative health consequences are unclear," authors wrote in their new report, published in The Journal of Cachexia, Sarcopenia and Muscle.

Escaped emu on the run for hours

A PET emu escaped its suburban home and ran amok for several hours.

The flightless bird, a native to Australia and related to the ostrich, escaped from its home in East Bridgewater near Boston, Massachusetts, by jumping over a fence.

"They can do about 35mph, so she was flying," the bird's owner, Lee Flaherty, said.

"She ran all the way up to an intersection and then cut into a field. I got up to her in the field and was walking with her and she wouldn't come. She was terrified."

Mr Flaherty suspects that a wild animal may have caused the bird, named Mallory, to leap the 6ft-high fence.

The emu was on the loose for more than three hours, crossing busy roads and running next to cars, until Mr Flaherty and a bystander finally caught Mallory in a shopping centre car park.

KATE: SEX WITH LEO WHILE MY HUBBY WATCHED WAS WEIRD

CO-STARS: Kate with Leo in Revolutionary Road

By SUZIE SHELTON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

KATE Winslet says filming sex scenes with her former co-star and pal Leonardo DiCaprio in front of her director hubby Sir Sam Mendes was very "weird".

The actress, 47, worked with her Titanic co-star in Revolutionary Road in 2008 and said filming the sex scenes felt uncomfortable.

However, Leonardo, 48, previously gushed that the pair "definitely have a comfort level between" them which pushes them to be better actors.

Boundaries

He said: "We were actively looking for something to do together. It felt really natural. She's my homie. We can push the boundaries with each other."

"We use the fact that we've been such good friends through the years to our advantage."

"There's definitely a comfort level that we have between us and we challenge each other as actors."

Kate agreed with The Wolf of Wall Street star but admitted the sex scenes were awkward as her director husband was there.

Kate said: "It was the element of, 'OK my husband is over there'. That was a bit weird."

Leonardo added that she was the "consummate professional" playing April which later gained her a Golden Globe award in 2009.

Kate and Sam separated in 2019 after a seven-year marriage. The pair now co-parent, and she said: "One thing I will say about me and Sam is that it's fine. We're grown-ups at the end of the day, and however hard it's been for me, it's been equally hard for him."

"And we have a child together who we both love, and raising him together, jointly and without any conflict, is absolutely key."

YouTube vid leads to migrant arrests

Posing as the smuggler in an unmarked truck, an intelligence officer for the US Border Patrol simply honked his horn, to alert illegal immigrants to come out of hiding and get into the "getaway" car.

A group of five migrants were immediately driven over to the Border Patrol station where they were arrested for entering the country illegally.

KOURT'S FANNY TREAT SLAMMED

KOURTNEY Kardashian's vaginal wellness gummy sweets aren't something you should keep up with, according to women's health experts.

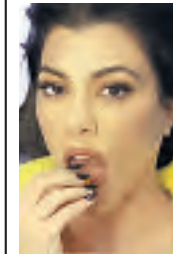

Gynaecologists are slamming the Kardashian's "crude and vulgar" gummies, claiming there's no scientific evidence they work and suggesting seeking advice from a doctor rather than an influencer.

Kourtney, 43 (below), promoted the product on her Instagram feed in a reel that shows CGI pussycats walking around her in circles as she eats one of the gummies.

"Give your vagina the sweet treat it deserves (and turn it into a sweet treat). You know what they say, you are what you eat."

However, experts are now warning the general public not to "spend your hard-earned cash on this product".

London-based gynaecologist Dr Anita Mitra said her first red flag was the use of the term "probiotic", adding that probiotics are "not a panacea for health".

Joyrider had naked spin in ambulance

A NAKED man was arrested after he stole an ambulance and went on a joyride.

Bradley Jermaine Baker, 48 (above), took control of the emergency vehicle where witnesses claim he was driving erratically with the headlights off in Macon, Georgia.

Baker led responding officers on a chase before he tried to flee on foot.

After doing doughnuts in the ambulance, Baker exited "completely nude and in full view of the public in the parking lot".

The arrest report also alleges that Baker appeared to be under the influence of cocaine or spice.

Police were able to take the naked suspect into custody and he is currently being held at the Bibb County Jail.

Baker faces several charges, including driving under the influence of drugs and public indecency.

Public nookie really gets my engine running!

#MY SEX FANTASY

...WITH ANNISA KATE, 36D, FROM BRISTOL

I LOVE getting naughty in public places where you might get caught.

Many times I've been having a picnic in a field when we've been eating sandwiches one minute and then my knickers are off and we've got carried away!

I love, love, feeling the warmth of the sun in the summer on my near naked body.

One time my then boyfriend was doing me doggy style when a group of ramblers walked by! We ducked as much as we could into the long grass.

I've also got naughty on a Virgin train. It was a cold winter and I'd brought a thick blanket for the journey.

There were several people near us who (I hope) had no idea I gave my fella a hand job under the blanket!

My boyfriend said that because I went really slow and, along with the tension from potentially being caught, he had a really intense orgasm that was very hard to stay quiet over!

He returned the favour to me and it was heaven when I climaxed.

Honestly, you can't take me anywhere!

'Drug smuggle'
teen faces death
by firing squad

A TEENAGE tourist is facing death by firing squad after smuggling drugs into Bali.

Brazilian Manuela Vitoria de Araujo Farias, 19 (above), was caught with 3kg of cocaine in her luggage after landing in Bali on January 27, but claims she was tricked into importing the illegal drug haul by a gang.

Trafficking drugs is punishable by the death penalty in Indonesia.

Her lawyer said she only came to the island to visit temples where monks pray for the sick, as her mother recently suffered a stroke.

"They said she could pray in the temples to ask for her mother's healing," the lawyer added.

Manuela flew into Bali from Brazil via Qatar, but the drugs were not detected until she landed on the holiday island.

Narcotics laws in Indonesia are very strict, with the amount of drugs smuggled normally earning those convicted anywhere from five years in jail to a death sentence.

Archaeologist finds live shell from Civil War

THE American Civil War was almost reignited after an archaeologist found a live artillery round buried in soil at Gettysburg National Military Park in Pennsylvania.

Park employees shut down roads and cleared the area around the 7ins-tall shell, which park spokesman Jason Martz said "could have easily killed a dozen people".

Archaeologist Steven Brann made the shock discovery while sweeping the grounds with a metal detector, ahead of a work crew that planned to rehabilitate a famous area of the battlefield known as Little Round Top.

The still-live 10-pound artillery shell dates back to the 1863 battle that claimed around 51,000 casualties over three days of fighting.

The American Civil War raged from 1861 to 1865.

HEADMISTRESS HAD SEX WITH PE SIR WHILE HIS KINKY WIFE FILMED THEM

AFFAIR: Dana Simmons (above) and Dylan Charles

A PRIMARY school headmistress and a hunky gym teacher who engaged in a years-long affair have both been sacked after allegedly having sex on-site.

But there's more to it than just that...

Because PE sir Dylan Charles's WIFE Kelsey begged Principal Dana Simmons to bonk her husband in action!

But the kinky set-up, that has scandalised mums and dads whose kiddies attend Banks County Elementary School in Homer, Georgia, turned sour when the threesome fell out.

The scandalous school affair came to light after Simmons accused Charles of accessing secret school district data, either by bugging her office or having a source inside the county's school board.

After that issue was settled, Charles sought out district officials and admitted to having an affair with Simmons and said they even had sex at the elementary school, as well as doing it off-campus.

Simmons claimed at first the two only had an "inappropriate friendship" and denied any sexual contact.

But Charles came up with pictures of the sex encounters, including one of him and Simmons kissing and another photo of a naked man and woman inside a vehicle having sex that Charles said was him and Simmons.

Other photos showed a woman identified as Simmons performing oral sex on a man inside a vehicle and a naked woman standing inside a room near Simmons's office at the school.

Texts between him, his wife and Simmons were also handed over to internal investigators.

"Again, there is no context added to the pictures or the texts, but the totality of the evidence supports Mr Charles's claim of an inappropriate relationship between Dr Simmons and Mr Charles," a report by education bosses says.

Fingering

During her interview with the outside firm of investigators, Simmons confessed to having a sexual relationship with Charles, but denied having sex at school.

She insisted the sexual liaisons were set up by the PE teacher's wife Kelsey Charles and that she even watched the two have sex while furiously fingering her own sodden minge.

An attendance clerk and confidant of Simmons told investigators she once saw a text to Simmons from Kelsey Charles that point blank asked: "Would you like to fk my husband?"

Both Simmons and Charles have resigned from their posts.

Lucy ANNE

LOVELY Lucy Anne Brookes is a bizarre bird – because she loves the weather when it's cold.

The 26-year-old, from Ealing and west London, said: "I know it's strange but I love winter."

"You get to come in out of the cold and warm up in front of the fire – maybe with a glass of something warming."

The 32D beauty added with a glint in the eye:

"And winter is when it gets more tempting to spend more time in bed."

"And I love bedtime – if you know what I mean..."

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

This is what happens when people are ignored

UNTOUCHABLE?
Cops in Liverpool on Friday night

CONSIDERING just how many people there are on the public payroll, we don't seem to have many ways to complain about them, do we?

We know, obviously, that you cannot complain about anything health related.

The NHS, hallowed be thy name, is now untouchable.

A no-no.

A religion to only be revered.

Teachers, too.

Over the last few years, they've also poured oil over their heads and self-anointed themselves as living saints.

The emergency services do such a brilliant job – even when they palpably, clearly, evidentially do not – are also beyond criticism.

You can't shout at the local council, even though it's shit, because the timid employees are so juvenile they can't cope with us wanting to know if and when our bins will be emptied.

Just down the road from me there's a hole in the middle of the road.

It's been there since last month.

It seems that there is some sort of drainage problem, which is presumably why the tarmac caved in and the road collapsed.

But there is some good news.

It'll be fixed by February 22.

Or at least, it might be.

Depends if they're on strike or not.

Can't be too certain about these things.

We're all of us watching the terrible events in Turkey and Syria and thanking our lucky stars that we're not caught up in it.

But imagine if the devastating earthquakes had happened here?

While kids are screaming to be yanked from collapsed buildings, we wouldn't be able to move for health and safety inspectors checking everything was being done "right".

Highly paid and entirely useless "diversity" officers would be prancing around in their rainbow jackets ensuring the whole rescue operation was "inclusive" enough.

The environmental lobby would question the use of emergency vehicles that might harm whatever it is little Greta is moaning about today.

Fires would remain ablaze because using water to quell them would be a "waste".

And the only way to raise any concern you may have about any of this is to ring a number that either won't be answered, or you'll be put in a queue, or most likely ignored.

And – as people tend to do – they're getting pissed off with all this shit.

This world of being treated like a worker bee, a drone, just there to pay your taxes so you can pay their fking wages (unless they're on strike again, of course).

And that's what happened in the Knowsley area of Liverpool on Friday night.

People spent months – and I do mean months – raising their fears about the activities of some, but not all, "guests" staying (for "free", natch, which means you're paying for it) at a migrant hostel in the town.

There are reams of videos on social media showing some young men approaching underage girls in their school uniforms in the area and basically asking for sex.

Mums and dads complained.

They went to teachers.

They went to the police.

Then, when they were routinely ignored and cast aside as bigots or racists, they went and protested themselves outside the hostel.

One of the horrible "care" charities got wind of the peaceful protest and sent in their own mob to ensure it was anything but.

Then it all kicked off, and the BBC and The Guardian and all the same usual bloody suspects mournfully reported on Merseyside Police having a van burned out. Boo-hoo.

But you can't complain about any of this.

Because really – who on earth can you go to?

Man who cut off ex's head with sword: I acted in self-defence

A MAN charged with beheading his former girlfriend with a sword claims he was acting in self-defence.

Jose Raphael Solano Landaeta, 33, was held in September for the murder of Karina Castro (above) in San Carlos, California.

Witnesses told police the 27-year-old victim was decapitated with a samurai sword in a street near her home.

Solano, who shared a one-year-old daughter with Karina, said in an interview at the San Mateo County Jail that she emerged from the driver's side of a car with a knife in her hand and marched towards him.

He said he swung the sword in self-defence.

However, San Mateo County District Attorney Steve Wagstaffe said: "We haven't had any reports of Karina being armed with a knife, or anybody even seeing a knife, much less using one."

Karina's dad, Martin, added: "He claimed self-defence against a girl who was a quarter of his size."

OAP attacker wrestled cop dog in nuddy

A MAN is accused of attacking an OAP and wrestling a police dog while naked.

According to sheriff's spokesman Tony Botti, the incident took place near southeast Fresno, California, where cops were sent after an 84-year-old man was struck in the head with a metal object.

Mr Botti said Danny Jimenez, 29, drove to the area and then randomly attacked the elderly victim before running to the back yard and into a shed that was converted into a bedroom.

When cops arrived, they saw Jimenez acting erratically as if he was on drugs.

Jimenez removed his clothes and then began throwing items around in the shed, prompting cops to release their dog.

A naked Jimenez then tried to choke the dog before officers took him into custody.

TELLY STAR PORN BABE 'STOLE BLOUSE'

ADULT LEGEND: Elise used to do porn under the name Chloe Cherry

TRENDY: Arcade of shops in Lancaster

By SUZIE SHELTON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

A PORN star who appeared in hit TV show Euphoria has been arrested after stealing a £40 blouse from a shop.

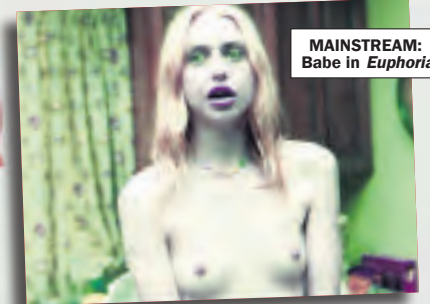

Elise Jones, 26, who's better known by her stage name Chloe Cherry, became a mainstream star after her appearance in the second season of the titular show, and is also popular because of her work as a kinky grumble star.

Police claim Chloe allegedly stole a blouse on December 26 from a shop in Building Character, an arcade of trendy vintage stores in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Officials said they met with an employee who had video footage of Chloe taking a Moda International tan puffy blouse into a dressing room and exiting the store without the blouse in sight.

It was later revealed that Chloe hid the blouse and walked out of the store without trying to pay for it.

Chloe later admitted to taking the blouse and returned it to the investigating officer. Authorities said Chloe is being charged with retail theft and that she has a prior history of theft, being convicted of the crime back in April 2015.

The actress is expected to appear in court on March 1 to face charges.

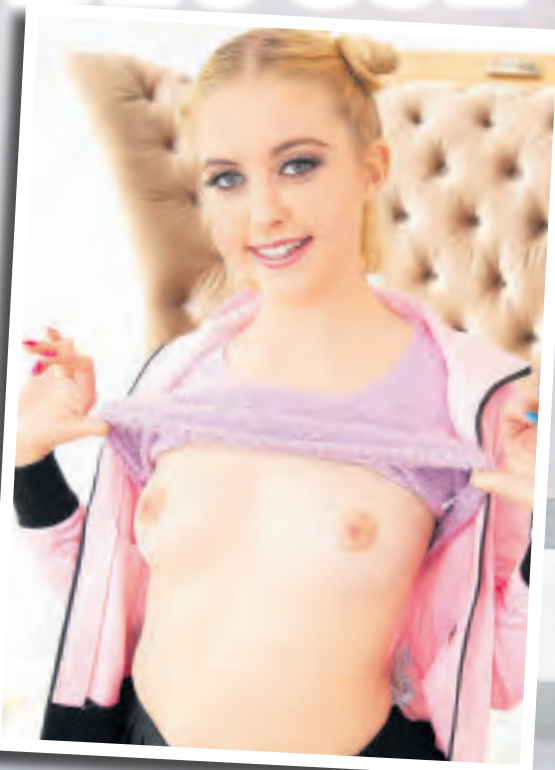

Although the model made her straight acting debut with HBO's teenage drama Euphoria, she had earlier appeared in a porn parody of the show.

After making her porno debut in 2015, she moved from her home in Lancaster to Miami.

At the time, she was signed under the modelling agency Hussie Models and was represented by Riley Reynolds.

Later, the model moved to Los Angeles and signed a deal with Spiegler Girls.

During the COVID pandemic she went on to start her OnlyFans page and it's believed she's made around 200 porn films.

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Kelly,

MY missus may be 42 but she's still got the body of a 20-year-old. She's always willing to try new things when we make love and she will even dress up for me if I ask her.

I came home from work a couple of weeks ago and she had a nice surprise for me.

I climbed the stairs I could hear my favourite rock track blasting out. And I got a real shock when I walked into the bedroom, because the wife was dressed in a sexy micro-dress and leather boots air-guitaring like a good 'un.

I got an immediate hard-on as she performed her routine. And when she bent over in front of me to reveal that she wasn't wearing any panties, my knob almost burst through my trousers.

She was obviously feeling as horny as I was, and immediately dived on top of me.

Then she went down on me, expertly working me to a frenzy with her tender tongue and luscious lips.

She soon brought me to a thundering climax, before laying back on the bed with just her boots on. She spread her well-muscled thighs wide, inviting me to return the favour.

Several licks and sucks later she was desperately begging me to enter her, so I gently eased in my seven-inch.

I gradually built up a steady rhythm until she was gasping for breath as she orgasmed in ecstasy.

Soon after that I reached my second climax, and we lay gently caressing each other for a while as the band rocked on.

That was two weeks ago and she has greeted me the same way every night since. But now she wants me to dress as the drummer in the band, but I'm now worried she might have more of a thing for him than me.

What do you think?

GR, Suffolk

Kelly says...

WHAT does it matter? There's only one real instrument being played - yours!

I'm using lodger's todger

Dear Kelly,

MY husband and I are strapped for cash and decided to raise money by taking in a lodger. We advertised in our local paper and eventually settled on a hunky young student.

Everything went well for the first few weeks, until one morning after my husband had left for work. The lodger's bedroom door was ajar and I could see him having a wank.

I was transfixed and must have let the door swing open a bit more because he looked up and saw me staring. But instead of being embarrassed, he held my gaze. And, as if in a dream, I went into the room, sat on the bed and grabbed his manhood.

I slowly bent over and took the tip of his member in my mouth. He gently pressed me down until I had taken half his length in my throat. As his balls began to tighten I eased up and slipped off my dressing gown and lay naked by him.

He pulled me on top of him and sucked my nipples as his hands explored my moist pussy.

He parted my love-lips and gently inserted two, then three fingers while rubbing my hard clit with his thumb.

After a few minutes of this finger-f*cking I was on the edge of an orgasm so I reached down, grabbed his huge knob and guided it in. There was still not a word said as I rode him until he emptied his juice into me.

I dressed and left him there and when he eventually came down we said nothing about it.

Now he waits deliberately until my husband has gone to work and lies in his room until I go to him.

I don't want to complicate things by forming any other kind of relationship. Do you think I am just using him?

SF, Manchester

Kelly says...

YES and he's using you! You're both having fun, just make sure you don't get caught

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week KELLY MCGREGOR has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

My head for women's figures could cost me

Dear Kelly,

I'M a fully trained accountant with a great head for figures, even if I say so myself.

But I've lost count of the number of randy business women who have offered me sex when I've been sorting through their books.

At first I accepted all the offers – I'd happily give them a good seeing-to in their offices or during home visits.

Services

One busty blonde in her early 40s even asked for a discount on my services when she let me slip it up her arse.

But now I'm a little bit more choosy about whose books, and indeed whose boobs, I get my hands on.

Generally women who run small internet businesses from home are the most filthy in bed, I have found.

I was recommended recently to a potential new client by another woman I'd serviced last year.

Round at her house one evening, she poured us both a glass of wine, and within minutes she had her gob wrapped round my bellend while she fondled my plums through my suit trousers.

I confess, I didn't last long, and ended up splashing my fat all over her hair and face.

But the next day she emailed me a bill for an emergency hairdresser's appointment – saying she expected me to pay it, after glopping on her barnet!

I'm beginning to think sex with these clients could cost me a small fortune. Help!

RS, Northants

Kelly says...

JUST be careful you don't take on too much "work" – your cock might fall off!

Dear Kelly,

MY girlfriend and I have been with each other for a year now and had the perfect relationship until a month ago when I walked into our local bar and caught her getting off with some random girl.

They were snogging in a corner and I could see that under the table they had their hands in each other's knickers.

They were clearly getting off and giving each other sticky orgasms.

I pulled her outside and asked her what the hell was going on and she laughed and said it wasn't a big deal and she snogs girls all the time, clearly unaware I'd seen them go further.

I know it's not exactly cheating but that's how she's making me feel, in spite of the fact I got a fair old stiffy watching them at it.

What do you think?

John, Sheffield

Kelly says...

KEEP a close eye on her – with luck she'll do it again while you're watching.

Dear Kelly,

I'M a 26-year-old babe in urgent need of advice.

A couple of months ago I had a fling with a lad at work. He was only 19, but he kept flirting and one day I took him into the stockroom for to see what he was made of.

Things got a bit out of hand and I ended up shagging him, but the manager caught us and we both got a reprimand.

Within days, it got all around the works about what we had been up to and I was terrified that my husband would find out.

Flirting

Luckily he didn't – but I have got myself a bit of a reputation and another bloke started flirting with me.

He was fit so I was happy and ended up arranging a threesome with him and the first bloke at his flat.

They took off my clothes and started to kiss me. I was so turned on I couldn't wait to have their cocks in me. They had me in loads of different positions.

Now they want to repeat the session.

What should I do?

TS, Essex

Kelly says...

ENJOY it. He won't tell.

Wife loves role as I fill her tight hole

Dear Kelly,

ME and the missus have been married for 10 years and have a very active sex life.

We are both love role-playing and our particular favourite is when I pretend to be a customs officer and strip-search her.

The wife wears a tight-fitting skirt with a white blouse and black lacy stockings and suspenders.

We pretend that she's just got off a plane from Amsterdam and I'm searching her for drugs.

There are no women officers available so I have to take her into a quiet room where I ask her to put her arms out against the wall and spread her legs slightly – and then I start to frisk her.

I slowly run my hands over her shoulders and her fantastic 34D boobs. I then concentrate on her legs and play with her stocking tops.

After the initial search I am still not convinced she hasn't got any drugs and I inform her I'm going to have to strip-search her.

I slowly undress her until she is naked. I kiss her neck and tell her that if she lets me do an internal examination with my cock I'll let her go.

She agrees and I handcuff her and unleash my throbbing knob into her mouth. After she has sucked me off, I then bend her over a chair and take her doggy-style while fingering her bum, and just as I am about to come I enter her arse.

It's brilliant as I squeeze my eight-incher into her tight hole.

She loves it, but do you think our behaviour is a bit weird?

DB, Oxfordshire

Kelly says...

NO. If it turns you both, carry on strip-searching.

BUSTY Eva Parcker says her love life is literally up and down – because she loves to shag at THEME PARKS.
The randy model was once given the ride of her life when she got stuck in a haunted house with her fella.
But rather than wait quietly to be rescued, the pair seized the chance to enjoy a quickie.
Here she is showing off her 34Ds in a saucy photoshoot. The Birmingham-born beauty revealed: "At first I was nervous about being trapped in the dark, so I reached out to grab my man's hand for some comfort."

 "But I missed and ended up with my fingers wrapped around his cock."
 "Needless to say, my fella did not need any encouragement and we both left with a broad grin on our faces!"
 "We even got a refund – so we grabbed a taxi home and carried on there."

GEORGINA LAW

SUNDAY League footballer Thomas Smith has a pre-match ritual which sees him ogling Georgina Law's boobs.

Thomas, 38, who's a centre-half for his local team in Birmingham, says Georgina's 36C knockers are his good luck charm.

He said: "My big superstition before a match on Sunday is to always have a good few minutes to myself staring at Georgie's boobs."

"I've heard glamour girls love footballers, so she might make an appearance one day!"

BONNIE SIMON

BRICKLAYER Ryan Lowton is desperate for a photo of stunning Midweek Sport legend Bonnie Simon.

The 42-year-old brickie is a huge fan of the blonde beauty and her sensational knockers.

He wrote: "Can you please put Bonnie in the paper? She's from Surrey, like me, and she's the hottest girl I've ever seen."

"She's not been in the paper for a while, so could you print a photo of her with her 34D boobs out? That would be absolutely brilliant."

Here you go Ryan, we're sure you'll enjoy this one!

NIKITA BELLUCCI

TOPLESS beauty Nikita Bellucci is well fancied by betting shop worker Gareth Harding.

The 57-year-old, from Stafford, only has eyes for Paris babe Nikita and she's top of all his markets.

Gareth says he can't get enough of Nikita and her 33Cs and begged for her sexiest ever photo to be printed in the paper.

He said: "We always have the Sport in the shop and I often flick through the paper."

"But Nikita is easily my all-time favourite glamour girl."

"Please can I have another photo of her?"

SPORT STARTS HERE WITH RACING

Since Day One is too classy

SINCE DAY ONE can make the most of having his sights lowered in the opening Racing TV In Stunning HD Novices' Chase at Wetherby.

The son of Fame And Glory has a consistent profile, with 11 starts to date yielding six victories and three placed finishes.

He has made a promising start to his chasing career this season, winning at Ayr on his fencing debut and getting the better of the high-class Tommy's Oscar when scoring at Newcastle early in the new year.

Donald McCain's charge was no match for the same rival when meeting him on much worse terms in the Grade Two Lightning Novices' Chase at Doncaster last month – but dropping back into handicap company and faced with just two rivals, Since Day One is difficult to oppose.

Return Ticket is taken to get his season back on track in the Racing TV Handicap Chase.

The 10-year-old is 4lb lower in the weights than when recording a narrow victory over the course and distance last season and 5lb lower than when claiming the notable scalp of Malystic in a Listed event at Ayr's Scottish Grand National meeting.

His drop in the ratings is a consequence of a few disappointing efforts during the summer, but he can be forgiven those following a tough campaign and is better judged on his second place at Kelso on his return from five months off the track in early December.

By MIKE FRANCIS

Return Ticket looked to find things happening too quickly for him on his latest appearance in the Scottish Champion Chase at Musselburgh and is given another chance in West Yorkshire.

Foster's Island has run some good races in defeat at Wetherby and looks poised for another bold showing in the Frank Dawn 90th Birthday Celebration Handicap Hurdle.

Perch

Micky Hammond's charge won five times in 2021 and while he has failed to add to his tally in his last seven races, he has finished second three times, including a head defeat here on Boxing Day.

He was a well-beaten fourth on his latest visit to the track last month, but was given plenty to do on that occasion, while it was later reported he scoped dirty post-race.

If he is back on-song, Foster's Island can get back on the winning trail from his current perch.

Tim Vaughan appears to have found Jean Genie an excellent spot to finally break his duck in the Cazoo Maiden Hurdle at Hereford.

Zero wins from 25 attempts hardly inspires confidence, but the seven-year-old finished second four times on the spin last year and there does not appear to be much wrong with his attitude.

Jean Genie is clearly no star, but reverting to hurdles for the first time since May, he will find few better chances to get off the mark.

Nikki appears a likely winner for Peter and James Bowen in the Follow @attheraces On Twitter Fillies' Juvenile Maiden Hurdle.

The Nathaniel filly was a decent performer on the Flat for Jedd O'Keeffe and there was plenty of promise in her hurdling debut when third at Ffos Las a fortnight ago.

The winner, She's A Saint, had finished second in Listed company twice, while Poetic Music is also a high-class operator and has since gone one better at Carlisle.

That Ffos Las form is strong and Nikki will not need to improve to hit the bullseye.

Silky Wilkie will not be winning out of turn if he can land the Try Our New Price Boosts At Unibet Handicap at Kempton.

WEBB OF WOE FOR REFEREES

PREMIER League referees held a crisis meeting with their boss Howard Webb after two incorrect offside calls by VARs on Saturday.

The official involved in the error at the Crystal Palace v Brighton match, John Brooks, has already been replaced as VAR for two Premier League matches.

Here, Midweek Sport takes a closer look at the issues.

WHAT HAPPENED?

A goal by Ivan Toney for Brentford against league leaders Arsenal was allowed to stand after the match VAR, Lee Mason, failed to check an offside against Christian Norgaard in the build-up to it. He had checked and cleared another incident immediately before the passage of play leading to the goal.

Brighton had a goal ruled out for offside away to Crystal Palace when Brooks drew the offside lines on the wrong Palace defender.

Professional Game Match Officials Limited (PGMOL) issued a statement on Sunday saying its chief refereeing officer Webb had contacted Arsenal and Brighton about the incidents "to acknowledge and explain the significant errors in the VAR process".

Brooks was replaced as VAR for Monday night's Merseyside derby and the Arsenal v Manchester City match on Wednesday.

WHAT ABOUT MASON?

His and Brooks' involvement in the next round of Premier League games is set to be made clear when appointments are announced at midday on Tuesday. Mason was not selected to officiate after another high-profile error earlier this season, when he incorrectly disallowed a goal for Newcastle in a home match against Palace in September for a foul by Magpies forward Joe Willock.

WHY DID WEBB CALL A MEETING?

Webb, who refereed the 2010 World Cup final, wanted to identify the issues which led to the errors over the weekend, review what went wrong and move forward.

Webb is determined to improve standards among the league's VARs and is working to bring in further support and coaching.

ANALYSIS By WES DERBY

Since the start of the current season, the VARs have received support from former rugby league referee and video-officiating specialist Phil Bentham.

HOW HAS THE VAR SYSTEM

PERFORMED SO FAR THIS SEASON?

The five-person Key Match Incidents panel, made up of three former players or managers, a PGMOL representative and a Premier League representative – reviews each weekend's actions and reports back to the clubs. Up to the World Cup break it had gone through hundreds of incidents and found where VARs had intervened to change an on-field decision, they had done so correctly 87.5 per cent of the time, with 42 correct compared to six incorrect.

Webb is determined to get that percentage up and to bring down the number of interventions by raising the bar for subjective decisions, so that only clear and obvious errors are reviewed.

While the focus is inevitably now on Mason and Brooks' errors, a number of English VARs, such as Stuart Attwell, Darren England and Chris Kavanagh, are on the FIFA and UEFA lists. Attwell is regularly called upon by UEFA to oversee matches.

HOW ELSE CAN VAR BE IMPROVED?

Webb is looking at ways to better communicate the decision-making process. FIFA has trialled referees communicating final decisions after a VAR check directly to the crowd in the stadium and the television audience during this month's Club World Cup in Morocco, and Webb has been monitoring that with interest.

PGMOL is also monitoring how semi-automated offside technology – which was used at the World Cup – can benefit the Premier League.

BIG IMPACT: Lawrence

Ollie has cured fine mess for England

OWEN Farrell has hailed the impact of Ollie Lawrence as England saw evidence against Italy that they may have found the solution to their perennial inside centre problem.

Lawrence was England's most effective carrier in the 31-14 victory at Twickenham, amassing 83 metres from his 11 runs, the majority of it into the heavy traffic, breaking eight tackles.

It was a continuation of the marauding form he has shown for Bath since his move from Worcester in October, rewarding Steve Borthwick's decision to dispense with the contentious Marcus Smith-Farrell creative axis in favour of a better balanced midfield trio.

The 23-year-old made an impression on his captain as he excelled in a position that due to a peculiarity of the English game has not been filled since Will Greenwood retired in 2014.

"Ollie he did really well, he played the way he's been playing for his club – destructive," said Farrell, who was operating from his preferred position of fly-half.

"I remember playing against him at the start of the season for Saracens at our place and he was holding the ball in one hand and batting everyone off like he did against Italy."

"It was good to see him break the line against Italy and get us on the front foot."

Just behind Lawrence as England's most potent carrier in the maiden victory of the Borthwick era was number eight Alex Dombrandt, another player who was unable to convince Jones of his value.

The Harlequin has started Borthwick's first two games in charge, beating Sam Simmonds to a place in the back row, with Billy Vunipola exiled once again.

It is another position that has suffered from frequent change once Vunipola's grip on the jersey was loosened and after overcoming injuries that forced him out of the July tour to Australia, Dombrandt is hoping to secure a run of games.

"I've been working hard in training and really trying to improve my all-round game, so to have that backing from Steve is massively important," Dombrandt said.

IRELAND FEEL THE BEIRNE

IRELAND lock Tadhg Beirne is seeing a specialist to determine the extent of the leg injury he suffered during Saturday's Guinness Six Nations win over France.

British and Irish Lion Beirne departed the Aviva Stadium on crutches after being forced off early in the second half of his country's 32-19 victory.

Head coach Andy Farrell said following the game that the issue "did not look great" for the Munster man, who has started the last 14 Tests.

Title-chasing Ireland, who top the championship table after two rounds, have retained a 25-man squad for this week's two-day training camp ahead of the first weekend break in the tournament.

Captain Johnny Sexton is managing a groin injury sustained against Les Bleus, while hooker Rob Herring is undergoing return to play protocols after suffering a head injury from a high tackle which has led to French prop Uini Atonio being cited.

Herring was deputising for Dan Sheehan, who is continuing his recovery from a hamstring problem under the supervision of the Ireland medical team.

Cian Healy, Tadhg Furlong,

Robbie Henshaw and Jamison Gibson-Park are also undergoing rehabilitation from their respective injuries.

Keith Earls, Jordan Larmour and Jacob Stockdale are among the 12 players released to play for their provinces.

Pundits

Atonio was sin-binned in the first half of his country's 32-19 defeat at the Aviva Stadium after his challenge forced Herring off for a head injury assessment from which he did not return.

Referee Wayne Barnes was criticised by a number of pundits for his failure to send off the 32-year-old La Rochelle player.

Atonio will attend a hearing via video before an independent judicial committee on Wednesday.

A Six Nations statement confirmed the New Zealand-born forward was cited for an act of foul play contrary to law 9.13.

The law states: "A player must not tackle an opponent early, late or dangerously."

"Dangerous tackling includes, but is not limited to, tackling or attempting to tackle an opponent above the line of the shoulders even if the tackle starts below the line of the shoulders."

Hot Rod ready to overtake Gunners

SPANIARD FANCIES CITY'S CHANCES OF HITTING TOP

RODRI set his sights on Arsenal after helping Man City hit back from a difficult week off the field with a rampant performance on it.

City were rocked last Monday when they were charged with multiple breaches of the Premier League's Financial Fair Play rules.

That prompted a rallying cry from manager Pep Guardiola and the players duly responded as the champions powered to a 3-1 win over Aston Villa at a raucous Etihad Stadium on Sunday.

The result also put City firmly back in the title picture after last week's setback at Tottenham by cutting Arsenal's lead at the top to three points.

Massive

Guardiola's side could now supplant the Gunners with victory at the Emirates Stadium on Wednesday.

Midfielder Rodri, who scored the opening goal after four minutes, said: "We have a massive chance to be on top of the table but we don't have to think much in this, just try to be ourselves, show personality in a very difficult stadium and show we can be a better team than they are.

"They have been better until now but we are going to go there to give the best of ourselves."

Roared on by a passionate crowd, City dominated from the outset against Villa and had numerous other chances to add to Rodri's early header before Erling Haaland set up Ilkay Gundogan for their second after 39 minutes.

Riyad Mahrez added a third from the penalty spot to all but wrap up victory before the interval.

"From the first minute we showed how good we are," said Rodri.

"From the start, even though we changed the tactics a bit, the involvement of the team was unbelievable.

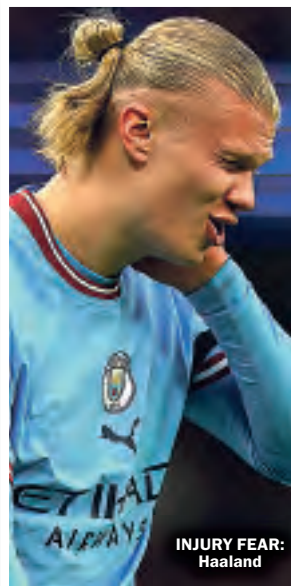

"We could have scored more than two or three goals.

"We are happy because of the goals and because we did an amazing first half.

"We controlled a bit less the second half, but that is sometimes what you have to do to make a step forward. After a defeat it is always good to come back like this."

Rodri thanked the fans for playing their part.

"When they are like this they inject us with extra energy," the Spaniard said.

"We love them and sometimes we need them to act like this because we really feel them on the pitch."

On the downside for City, red-hot striker Haaland did not reappear for the second half after taking a knock.

Guardiola is hopeful the problem is not serious but the prolific Norwegian will be assessed before Wednesday's crunch clash that will go a long way to deciding the title.

Positive

Villa had no complaints about the result, which was their second successive loss and first away from home under new manager Unai Emery.

Ollie Watkins, who scored their second-half consolation, said: "I think we were a bit soft in the first half.

"We switched off early doors with the set-piece and then we found it hard to get back into the game against a world-class team.

"We came out and we were a lot more positive in the second half. There was a little bit more fight about us.

"I think we were unlucky not to get a second goal, but it's a fair result, really."

UNITED WAIT FOR A SLIP UP

MANCHESTER United midfielder Marcel Sabitzer says his side will be ready if the top two falter in the Premier League title race.

United closed the gap on leaders Arsenal to five points on Sunday after late goals from Marcus Rashford and Alejandro Garnacho secured them a 2-0 win at Leeds.

The Gunners have two games in hand on Erik ten Hag's side, while Manchester City's 3-1 home win against Aston Villa later on Sunday kept them two points above United with one game in hand.

Sabitzer, on loan from Bayern Munich, said there were "big things ahead" for United after being pushed hard by Leeds at Elland Road in the second league meeting between the two Roses rivals in the space of five days.

When asked if United can win their first league title since 2013, the Austria international said: "It's hard you know. We're a bit behind them, but when we keep going, doing our job, we'll be ready for that. We will see."

"There's big games ahead, big things ahead. We have to keep going, keep improving, keep the energy high and we'll see what happens at the end of the season. But we're ready to go."

Rashford was once again the game-changer for United against Leeds. He sparked his side's fightback from 2-0 down with their first goal in Wednesday's 2-2 draw at Old Trafford and on Sunday broke the deadlock with another brilliant header.

It was the England striker's 21st goal of the season for United in all competitions and his 13th in 15 appearances since the World Cup.

Ten Hag hailed him one of the best forwards in Europe after Sunday's match, and Sabitzer added: "Yeah, he's a type of a different player. He can make the difference."

"He's a great guy, a great player as well, so he's helping us a lot at the moment. He should keep going and we're very happy to have him."

Leeds' winless league run was extended to nine games and they remain one point above the relegation zone, while their search for a new manager is heading into a second week.

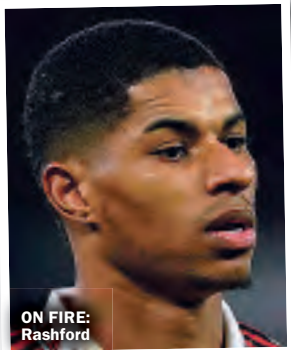

Brilliant

Stand-in skipper Luke Ayling said: "We played really well for 80 minutes there and we gave it our all. We had some big chances, in the second half especially I think, and they're the moments that change games."

Leeds will hope to have Jesse Marsch's successor in place before next week's trip to relegation rivals Everton – former Ajax boss Alfred Schreuder was watching at Elland Road on Sunday – before they face bottom club Southampton the following week.

Ayling added: "We'll see what next week brings. We're not sure what's going on behind the scenes, whether we're close to getting a new manager."

"But Skubers and his staff have been brilliant. Our team effort and stats show that."

THE NOT SO MAGNIFICENT SEVEN

NATHAN Jones' sacking by Southampton on Sunday left him with one of the shortest reigns at a Premier League club.

But who did even worse?

FRANK DE BOER, C PALACE

FIVE GAMES, 2017

The former Netherlands star was an eye-catching appointment at Selhurst Park and was allowed to bring in Jairo Riedewald for £8million as well as Ruben Loftus-Cheek and Timothy Fosu-Mensah on loan but was dispensed with after just four league games – which did not yield a point or a goal – and a League Cup win over second-tier Ipswich.

LES REED, CHARLTON

EIGHT GAMES, 2006

Taking over with the club struggling after eight defeats in their first 12 league games, Reed failed to improve matters. He picked up just four points in seven games, suffered a League Cup exit against Wycombe and was sacked on Christmas Eve.

BOB BRADLEY, SWANSEA

11 GAMES, 2016

The first American to manage in the Premier League, Bradley lasted only from October to December 2016 – though unlike Reed, he at least made it through Christmas before being axed on December 27. He took eight points from 11 games and left Swansea 19th in the table, having also struggled under Francesco Guidolin, but they finally found their man as Paul Clement secured top-flight survival.

QUIQUE SANCHEZ FLORES, WATFORD

12 GAMES, 2019

Watford's managerial merry-go-round under the Pozzo family's ownership stands out among Premier League clubs and Sanchez Flores has taken two rides, serving for 44 games between June 2015 and May 2016 but only a dozen – with two wins – on his return three years later.

TERRY CONNOR, WOLVES

13 GAMES, 2012

Mick McCarthy's successor was hardly the experienced name Wolves fans had been promised, with his assistant never having managed professionally. Four points from 13 games – and Wolves' relegation – meant he would go back to being McCarthy's assistant at Ipswich.

JACQUES SANTINI, SPURS

13 GAMES, 2004

The Frenchman's only wins came against Newcastle, Birmingham, Everton and in League Cup ties against Oldham and Bolton. His resignation was put down to

"personal reasons", reported to involve disagreements with Spurs' then sporting director Frank Arnesen.

PAUL STURROCK, SOTON

13 GAMES, 2004

The Scot won four of his first six games, opening up with a 2-0 success against Liverpool, though defeat to rivals Portsmouth would not have helped and a five-match winless run to close the 2003-04 season left Saints in 12th place. He was sacked two games into the following season, despite a 3-2 win over Blackburn. League Managers' Association vice-chairman Frank Clark described the sacking as "ludicrous".

MENTOR: Kompany

Arteta is just like Pep says Kompany

PREMIER League title rivals Pep Guardiola and Mikel Arteta "spoke the same language" when they worked together at Manchester City, according to former club captain Vincent Kompany.

Guardiola and Arteta will go head to head on Wednesday night when defending champions City head to the Emirates Stadium with a chance to move above Arsenal at the top on goal difference. Guardiola won both matches against his former assistant last season but Arsenal are a different proposition this term as they seek their first Premier League title since 2004.

Much of their improvement is down to Arteta, who began his coaching career as Guardiola's City assistant in 2016 before becoming Arsenal boss in 2019.

"Like any good coaching staff is supposed to work he was definitely an extension of Pep, probably the one in the coaching staff that was closer to the players, and understanding fully what Pep wanted as a manager," Kompany said.

"You could see Mikel was in that transition moment from being a player to being a coach. He was hungry, he was very active, full of energy, and obviously he was in a good environment to develop and grow his own ideas.

"I'm not surprised he's been doing well with Arsenal and definitely he's going to continue doing well, there's no doubt about that..."

"He's got the energy and especially the resilience to deal with setbacks and keep going, draw his own conclusions and improve. That's why I think he's doing so well with Arsenal."

While he has been asked many times how Guardiola had influenced him as a coach, asked if he had learned anything from Arteta, Kompany said: "When I go into a coaching room, I might be the one transferring the ideas to the players but I might have got the idea from three or four of the staff members."

"To say everything comes from Pep or everything comes from Mikel is difficult but they spoke the same language for sure, so you learn from the coaching group in general."

KLOPP: MY REDS ARE BACK

Liverpool boss hopes his side have finally turned a corner after first victory of 2023

JURGEN Klopp admitted his relief after Liverpool finally won their first Premier League game of 2023 with a 2-0 derby victory over Everton on Monday.

Mohamed Salah scored in the competition for the first time since Boxing Day and January signing Cody Gakpo notched his first goal for the club in the Anfield triumph.

Liverpool's success ended a run of four league games without a win and lifted them to ninth in the table while struggling Everton remained in the bottom three.

Asked how he felt after the game, Liverpool manager Klopp said: "Relieved – that's it, that's the main feeling since the final whistle."

"I'm happy with the performance. It was necessary that we played the game we wanted to play and not the game Everton wanted to play."

"You cannot avoid it all the time but they didn't have an extremely high number of set-pieces. With the all aggression you have to show, you have to make sure you don't overdo it because each set-piece is a massive threat and something they want to have."

"I thought we did that really well. On top of that we were super-dominant, switched the sides, kept the ball and kept them running."

"Both goals came from counter-attacks – that is allowed as well – and I loved both goals."

"For both goals we had three options in the box. A lot of things were different tonight so it was our best game for a while."

"We needed this game, we needed this performance. Our people absolutely deserved it. I loved the atmosphere – even before we scored. It is an insane atmosphere people create here."

"I am in love with my crowd and what they did, it was special and was extremely helpful, the boys paid it back."

"It was a real derby and we played a game we wanted to play, not a game Everton wanted to play. I saw a real unit, where everyone was fighting – really, really fighting."

"Tonight we were there and that has to be the sign for us what we have to do. I really thought the performance of the full 95 or 96 minutes was the best for a while."

Difficult

"It's much better to get three points when you deserve it and tonight we deserved it."

"This was a massive relief. Whatever the crowd asked me I would have done except for getting rid of my clothes."

"This club has gone through worse things but I think we are the club who can show how you can deal with difficult moments. I enjoyed each second of the game."

Everton manager Sean Dyche felt his side started strongly but did not recover after being caught out for Salah's 36th-minute opener, which came seconds after James Tarkowski hit the post at the other end.

Dyche said: "I think they had the upper hand in the early stages without opening too much up."

"Our shape was good but then it changed in 15 or 16 seconds."

"We hit the post and didn't react as quick as they did."

"We know Liverpool are good in the transition phase and we conceded a goal without needing to."

"At half-time we said we had to use the ball better but then if you give away another goal so quickly it is very difficult, especially here."

"We kept plugging away but there were too many sloppy passes and too many turnovers."

Dyche insisted that, as he had not got too excited after victory over Arsenal in his first game in charge, he was not downbeat about derby defeat in his second.

He said: "The players have taken a lot on board so I am not going to be too critical. They have been working very hard, very diligently.

"I know the importance of this game to Evertonians but, on paper, you'd take three points from these first two games. That's a start point.

"I don't remember being too high after we beat the leaders. I was quite balanced about it and I'm quite balanced after this.

Hard

"We have lost the game and we need to look at where we have lost it. We gave away two goals on the counter and that is massively disappointing.

"We were a bit nervy in the first half, we tried to play more in the second half and to say we lost the game is hard.

"This is the Premier League and people will change things to try and eradicate the good things you did in your last game.

"It is important we keep listening to the manager each day and we need to go again for the weekend against Leeds."

Mo Salah was relieved to get on the scoresheet and bring his goal drought to an end.

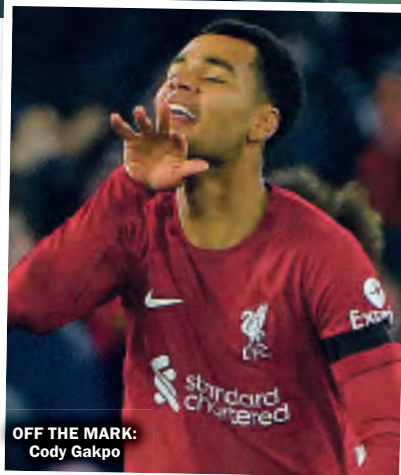

The Egyptian said: "It's huge for us. We had a perfect week to train and the players were so excited to change everything. Hopefully, again, it's the start.

"We couldn't wait for the game to turn everything around. Hopefully this is the start.

"We were a little bit lucky but luck always comes when you work really hard and I'm sure we worked really hard and everybody was excited to change everything. Hopefully, again, it's the start.

"(Jordan) Henderson and (James) Milner were speaking and said we have to play our football and enjoy it because we've been together for five or six years, we have new players that play really good.

"We managed to play well and it looks like the old Liverpool but that only has started since last week."

TILLMAN THE BEALE DEAL!

MALIK Tillman has a bright future at Rangers says boss Michael Beale.

The 20-year-old midfielder, on loan from Bayern Munich, sparked the controversial goal against Partick in the Scottish Cup. Gers let their opponents walk the ball into their net to cancel that out.

The Gers boss preferred to focus on Tillman's many positives.

He said: "Since I have been here and since the first interview I said I was excited to work with him.

"I think he is a fantastic young player and he has been terrific for the last few weeks, outstanding.

"Malik deserves things said and written about him that are the right things because his effort his fantastic, his quality is fantastic.

"He won us a penalty. He is driving up the pitch, he is taking on a lot of information for a 20-year-old."

My Spurs players crumble under pressure says Conte

By JOHN ANTHONY

ANTONIO Conte reckons some of his Tottenham players are prone to collapsing under pressure.

Conte, who is still not 100 per cent following gallbladder surgery, watched his side beat Man City and then follow it up by being thrashed 4-1 at Leicester at the weekend.

Spurs have notoriously failed in big moments over the years and Conte has hinted some of his players cannot live with the pressure.

"If you want to win or achieve some targets and have a good position in the Champions League or in England in the Premier League you have to be stable," the Italian, who had his gallbladder removed a fortnight ago, said.

"And this stability is lacking this year.

I always talk about it with my players. It is very difficult to keep concentration, it is very difficult to stay focused all of the time.

"It is not an easy task being so focused. We are working on that, playing under pressure all of the time is good for some players and bad for others.

"Sometimes players feel motivated, other times they feel so much under pressure that they can't perform.

"Maybe for a period they have a good performance and then collapse all of a sudden if they feel too much pressure.

"We are working on this, we want to make our players more resilient."

Conte says this has played a part in his side's turbulent season.

"There are also external factors like injuries for very important players," he said. "And injuries influence the team, influence the evolution of the league."
